lappreciate that you acknowledge us and our situation. I must apologize to you, as I was in a dark and horrible place when I wrote this to you. Hive in that place now, and I am no longer the person I once was. I am trying very hard to figure out who I need to be now. I am a mother to another son, and I know I need to be there for him, and to speak now for Christopher. I am grateful that you said that you will not participate in any efforts to aid Wilfredo Pujols in his defense. I have so many fears that he will walk away from what he has done, and I could not live with that. As a mother, I am sure you can understand those feelings. I don't know you or your husband, but from visiting your website, it would seem that you are compassionate people. Again, I apologize for my assumption. The loss of a child through murder is the most devastating thing that can happen to a mother, and I struggle daily to find a way to live through each second, each moment without my beloved boy. I just want justice for my baby, and I'm sure you can understand that. Thank you again for your reply. Cheryl Cooper
